CONVICTED ON FORGERY COUNT AS TERM ENDS

Leo Nace, East Berlin R. 2, was found guilty of a forgery charge Tuesday afternoon by an Adams county jury that deliberated for only ten minutes.

Nace was committed to the Adams county jail January 12 and has been there since. He will receive sentence on the forgery charge Saturday.

Removed to the county jail here after serving an 11-month sentence in Franklin county on a false pretense charge after completing a three-year term in Western penitentiary on larceny and forgery charges, Nace has been in prison most of the time since the forgery charge in Adams county was laid against him in 1939 by Private Joseph F. Bushey, of the state police, then stationed here.

Nace was charged with forging the name of William C. Decker, then proprietor of a garage near Aspers, on a check for $590 given to Herman Shives, Mercersburg.

Term of Court Ends

At the time he was brought here early this month for commitment, Nace told Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore and Chief of Police Glenn Guise that he could not write at the time he was said to have committed the forgery. On the witness stand Tuesday however he reversed his story about learning to write when confronted with witnesses who were said to have known that he was able to write prior to that time. He was one of the first persons to take the witness stand in Adams county court in recent years who refused to swear to the truth of the statements he was to make. He took the alternate procedure of affirming to the truth of his statements.

A settlement has been reached in the Samuel R. Goldstein action in assumpsit suit brought against Samuel Weiner and Cella Weiner, Littlestown, it was stated in court. The Nace case thus became the last trial before the court in its January term. The jurors have been dismissed.

The jury in the Nace case included Mrs. Ethel M. Altland, East Berlin; Mrs. Henrietta Blocher, Gettysburg; A. Mae Brame, Strasburg township; Ervin Brough, Latimore township; Charles Busby, McSherrystown; Homer Cashman, Huntingtown township; Walter J. DeGroot, Littlestown; Harry A. Keefe, Littlestown; David Kuykendall, Tyrone township; Maurice E. Miller, Berwick township; Oliver Myers, Germany township and Mrs. Margaret Taylor, Bendersville.

During his term in the legislature Mr. Worley was a member of the following committees: "Judiciary special, Constitutional amendments, elections, municipal corporations, liquor control and mines and mining. He was secretary of the judiciary special and constitutional amendments committees."

Mr. Worley said, in his announcement, that he had never been absent at a committee meeting, caucus or session of the House. He stated that he has supported rural road legislation and favored abolishing the mercantile tax of the state. He is a graduate of York Springs high school, George school, State college and Dickinson school of law. With his wife and family he resides on the Worley nursery farms near York Springs.

Additional volunteers to help fold gauze dressings for the Adams county Red Cross were asked today by Mrs. LeRoy H. Winebrenner, chairman of the production committee of the local Red Cross.

The additional women are needed at the Red Cross surgical dressing center in the American Legion home, Baltimore street, to aid in the making of bandages to be used in service hospitals throughout the world.

The February quota for bandages includes 18,000 four by four inch sponges and 7,200 four by eight inch bandages. An additional quota of 18,000 four by four sponges has been given the county chapter for March.

BUILDING NEW SHOE FACTORY FOR FAIRFIELD

Fairfield, which gave over its community hall to be used as a factory more than a year ago will soon have a new and modern factory and the community hall will be returned for the use of the students of the school and the townpeople.

The Beaudin Shoe company, first manufacturing establishment to settle in Fairfield in recent years, has already started construction on its new building and hopes to have the new shop ready for occupancy by April 1.

The old Methodist church, long unused for religious services, has been converted into an office building and part of the new plant. To the rear of the former church two 100-foot long frame and corrugated metal buildings are being constructed. The one building is already partially sheathed with its metal cover while the framework of the other building has nearly been completed.

To Employ 250

A shortage of carpenters and other construction workers and inclement weather have held back work on the structures, but the company hopes that after the buildings are under roof work will advance rapidly enough to finish within the time scheduled.

Two hundred and fifty persons will be employed in the new factory, it was stated. The present plant, housed temporarily in the community building, has about 75 employees.

A second floor has been constructed in the former church. Offices will be constructed on that floor. The first floor of the former church building will be used for cutting machinery.

Miss Allison Resigns Post

The resignation of Miss Emily Allison as superintendent of the Annie M. Warner hospital was announced today by Dr. E. H. Markley, president of the hospital.

Miss Allison tendered her resignation on Monday following her return from Philadelphia. The resignation, which takes effect immediately, has been accepted. Dr. Markley stated, although no plans have been completed for the appointment of a successor to the position.

Miss Allison, who came to the local hospital early in 1943 from the Fredericksburg, Virginia hospital, has not divulged her future plans.

WLB Flayed By House Group On Charge Of "Illegal" Operations

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The National War Labor board was accused by a special House committee today of violating the constitution by requiring maintenance-of-union membership clauses in contracts between workers and employers.

The committee, set up to investigate "acts of executive agencies beyond the scope of their authority," declared in a blistering report to the House that the constitution can not be suspended by the president or his agents "merely because a state of war exists."

If the Labor Board's "autocratic challenge to constitutional authority remains unanswered and unremedied," the report said, "it will imperil our present economic system and will mark the transition of our government from one of laws to one of men."

CHAMBER HOST TO MEMBERS AT DINNER TUESDAY

Nine members of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce were placed in nomination for the three positions to be filled on the Chamber's board of directors when 51 members and guests of the organization gathered Tuesday evening for the annual membership dinner at the Battlefield hotel.

Eight members of the 55th College Training Detachment (Air Crew) at Gettysburg college entertained with musical selections after the brief business session.

Election January 31

The list of nominees for the directorships follows: A. E. Hutchison, Vernon Corle and Henry Garvin, whose present terms expire this month; and George M. Zerfing, Dr. Bruce N. Wolf, J. I. Burgoon, Nicholas Meligakes, Robert Lewis, J. H. Kadel, C. A. Schweizer and Clifford Naugle. The report of the nominating committee was read by Robert E. Berkhelmer.

President Mares Sherman, who presided during the evening, announced that the election of directors will take place at a meeting to be held Monday evening, January 31, at 8 o'clock at the YWCA building.

Business and professional men and women of the town were urged by President Sherman to cooperate in the plan to designate Friday, February 4, as Bond Day in Gettysburg when receipts from that day's business will be used by the business people to purchase war bonds and stamps.

LOCAL PILOT PROGRAM MAY BE RETAINED

There was much speculation in Gettysburg today over press and radio dispatches from Washington to the effect that the House Military Affairs Committee of Congress may recommend abolition of a large part of the Army's Specialized Training program soon in a move designed to save an estimated 200,000 pre-war fathers from military induction.

All information out of Washington came from private disclosures by members of the committee. There was no official announcement of any definite curtailment program. Neither was it indicated that the curtailment, if adopted, would affect the 55th College Training Detachment operating at Gettysburg College and the Gettysburg School of Aeronautics.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, this morning made this curt statement: "The program that Gettysburg college has is very probably the last one to be disturbed and I see no reason for anyone to be unduly alarmed."

CHIMNEY FIRE The Gettysburg fire company was called about 5 o'clock Tuesday evening to extinguish a chimney fire at the residence of Charles Reaver, West High street.

Twenty-seven hundred pounds of tin cans have been collected so far by the students at the Lincoln and Meade schools, the salvage committee of the Gettysburg fire company discovered Tuesday when they collected the piles of tin gathered by the local students.

NEW JUSTICE NAMED William L. Dentler, Cashtown, was named by Governor Martin as justice of the peace for Franklin township to succeed Floyd N. Hartman, deceased. Dentler's term will end in January, 1946.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The Reader's Digest published a story and Gettysburg got some unfavorable publicity. Now the Reader's Digest is getting a taste of readers' distaste as a result.

All the fuss evolved around the little yarn about General Marshall and Field Marshal Sir John Dill's visit to the Battlefield and their reported correction of a Battlefield guide's story. The yarn's newest repudiation comes from Private George M. Gilbert, at Camp Berkeley, Texas.

Gilbert took The Reader's Digest to task for the yarn.

The Digest answered as follows:

"Frankly, we don't know how to reply to your criticism of our short article about General Marshall's visit to Gettysburg. The item was contributed by Thomas M. Johnson.

"We're forwarding your letter, and the clipping you enclosed, to him, and he will get in touch with you either directly or through us."

Then Mr. Thomas M. Johnson, New York, N. Y., wrote to Private Gilbert as follows:

"Your letter of January 5 with enclosed clipping has been forwarded to me and I am glad to reply.

"The anecdote about General Marshall and Field Marshal Sir John Dill at Gettysburg was told me by an Army officer in whom I had every reason to have confidence. He has now gone, I am told, to an active theatre of operations. The article was passed by the War Dept. (Please Turn to Page 7)

MILLION GOAL FOR SOLDIERS' SHOW FEB. 14

More than one million dollars in war bonds is the goal set for the all-soldier revue "Ten Nights In A Squadroom" to be presented in the Majestic theater, February 14th by a cast of 65 men from the Carlisle barracks. The 1,138 seats in the theater have been sealed to net $1,008,200 in war bonds during the Fourth War Bond drive. The chart and tickets in exchange for war bond purchase coupons will open Monday, Sydney J. Poppay, chairman of the committee, said today.

The entire show is centered around the Musical Medicos under the direction of Sergeant Ray Hartman, the 30-voice glee club led by Pfc. Cecil Oyler and an all-male dancing chorus.

Sergeant Army Entine will be master of ceremonies. His stooge will be Pfc. Frank Bauer, famous for his impersonation of Hitler in "Der Fuehrer's Face" and "Pistol Packing Mama." Bauer also will be featured in "A Ton of Fun" to be presented by the Barrackeaters.

Featured Selections

Some of the featured musical selections will include:

"The National anthem, 'Howdy Do, Bond Buyers, Howdy Do,' by the glee club and Musical Medicos; 'El Capitan' in swing fashion; Marimba solo, 'Mission to Moscow'; 'This Is My Country,' 'Sky Anchors,' 'Lower Basin Street Special.' The latter will present nine soldiers on woodwind instruments in a jam session with Don Mayer as announcer. Pfc. James Yesladt will give a piano solo 'Rhapsody In Blue' and Pfc. Neal Leeper will sing 'Till Be Around' accompanied by the Musical Medicos.

A comedy act, 'Hold Onto Your Hats' will be one of the highlights of the show. However, details are being withheld until the night of the show.

A trumpet trio will play 'A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody' and members of the band will render a selection on small bottles.

BOND SALES IN COUNTY REACH $294,480 TODAY

Adams countians purchased an additional $39,825 worth of war bonds during the past 24 hours to boost the county's total in the Fourth War Bond campaign to $294,480. Elmer W. Warren, compiling daily statistics during the campaign, reported shortly before noon today.

Mr. Warren also reported that sales of "E" bonds totaled $145,280.25, a little more than one-third of the county quota of $494,567. The latter figure is an increase of $40,000 over the first announced quota, the increase being announced by state headquarters Tuesday.

Commenting on the progress of the campaign thus far Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the County War Finance committee, referred to a recent editorial in The Philadelphia Bulletin as "best portrayal of the true picture of the present drive." The editorial, captioned "The Measure of a Man," follows:

"It is necessary that the progress of the Fourth War Loan be measured against the total it aims to reach and against the quotas assigned to specific communities and collection areas. It may be measured, too, by the percentage subscribed within a given time and the distance still to go.

"His Own Yardstick"

"But these calculations have nothing much to do with the individual bond-buyer, any more than the soldier in action can stop to calculate whether he has done more or less than his duty. Every subscriber to the Fourth War Loan is his own yardstick. He knows and decides (Please Turn to Page 2)

Yankees Cross Rapido And Enter Cassino; Hospital Ship Is Sunk

By WES GALLAGHER

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Jan. 26 (AP)—U.S. troops have stormed across the Rapido river in renewed battle for Cassino—already entered by paratroops, field dispatches said—and Fifth army invasion forces below Rome have speared deeper against "increasing resistance," it was announced today.

The Nazis apparently were pulling units back from the Cassino front to meet the great threat to their rear.

It now seems certain the invasion thrust has at least cut the Apennine way, and seriously threatens the remaining Cassino-Rome highway, perhaps having it under artillery fire.

American combat units are advancing through minefields north of Cassino after a second crossing of the Rapido river, a headquarters officer declared. Headquarters said it had no information that Cassino yet had been taken.

Light Resistance French troops north of the bastion town were forced from Mt. Groce by bitter Nazi counterattacks, with close fighting continuing.

While the Germans threw increasing opposition against the invasion troops who landed in the Nettuno-Anzio areas, an Allied officer said this resistance still was "comparatively light."

(Cairo radio said the Allies were 19 miles from Rome.)

The troops were spurred by another visit from Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark, Fifth army commander, who expressed satisfaction with their progress.

German planes struck at the sea armadas, and an official announcement declared Nazi bombers had attacked three hospital ships well outside the invasion zone, sinking one of them. All three were lighted and carried Red Cross markings.

Pound Supply Lines Allied planes in powerful numbers concentrated on slashing at enemy supply routes and troops between the Fifth army front and the new beachhead, and the main line between Florence and Rome, which the Germans must use to get reinforcements to the Rome area.

The Allies flew 1,100 sorties over the beachhead yesterday, compared with 60 by the Nazis. An American naval officer said the enemy attacks were causing "some trouble" however.

He disclosed that Allied warships, including French, had heavily bombarded the road between Terracina and Formia by daylight Monday, and made diversionary bombardments along the coast.

250,000 Nazis Trapped; 54 Jap Planes Downed; Argentina - Axis Break

By STANLEY ROSS

Buenos Aires, Jan. 26 (AP)—Argentina severed diplomatic relations with Germany and Japan today to complete belatedly a solid stand by the western hemisphere against the Axis.

The last of 21 republics in the Americas to break off relations with Germany and Japan, Argentina announced the action after a long night of conferences among leaders of the government of President Gen. Pedro Ramirez.

Damage 60 Ships

Lashing at Japanese communications in southern Burma, Allied fighter planes damaged more than 60 river craft and a steamer. New Delhi also reported fresh fighting in the northern Burma campaign to clear the way for the new Leda road to China.

The latest of the smashing timetable strikes at Rabaul brought the statement by Maj. Gen. Ralph Mitchell, commander of South Pacific air squadrons, that it was "the most successful offensive operation in the history of Solomon warfare."

American and New Zealand units, attacking the Lakunai airdrome in pre-dawn and afternoon sweeps Sunday, shot down 46 Japanese interceptors for certain and 15 probables. In addition, eight parked planes were destroyed. The raiders lost two bombers and three fighters, but one bomber crew and a fighter pilot were rescued.

Other Destruction

On the basis of communiques, Allied planes have wiped out more than 300 Japanese aircraft at Rabaul alone since January 1. Attempts to fight off attacks on the Marshall islands and air battles in the China-Burma-India theatre have cost the enemy at least 100 additional planes.

As a part of the aerial offensive against Japanese bases in the Bismarck Archipelago, Allied planes bombed the Admiralty islands along a 50-mile length of troop and supply concentrations. The destruction included seven parked planes, 12 barges, two luggers, three small freighters and many buildings.

In shipping, too, the Japanese received hard new blows as U. S. 14th Airforce fliers—credited with sinking 17 enemy ships during December—destroyed five vessels totaling 9,900 tons off Fuchow on the east China coast.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, Jan. 26 (AP)—The great Russian northern offensive has reached the two main railroads running west and south of Leningrad, cutting off approximately 250,000 Nazi troops from direct communication with the rest of the German Army.

A Soviet communique announced last night that Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad Army had fought its way into the strategic rail hub of Krasnogvardeisk, 30 miles southwest of Russia's second city to sever the important trunk line running west to the Estonian city of Reval. Krasnogvardeisk is also the northern terminus of a railway running southwest of Luga and Pskov.

Capture Towns

Govorov's troops stormed into Krasnogvardeisk from Pushkin, 14 miles to the northeast, and front dispatches reported that the town, already outflanked from the east and west, was expected to fall momentarily.

Vladimirskaya, nine miles east of Krasnogvardeisk on the branch line to Tosno, junction point on the Leningrad-Moscow main railway line, was captured in this drive, while other units of Govorov's forces moved across the Leningrad-Moscow line between Tosno and Chudovo (A British radio broadcast, recorded by CBS, said today that Tosno's capture was expected soon.)

The Germans were reported battling violently to hold their grip on these main rail arteries but their use of them already has been neutralized by Govorov's swift advance, and the Nazis have been forced to fall back on two secondary lines running south to a junction with other railroads serving Luga and Pskov.

Railway Breached

These lines, however, were simultaneously threatened by the westward advance of Gen. K. A. Meretskov's Volkhov Army from Novgorod, which already is reported close to the junction points so vital to German escape plans.

The main Moscow - Leningrad railway was breached in a swift drive from Kirishi, 23 miles north-east of Chudovo.

In the Ukraine, strong German tank and infantry forces continued their counter-attacks against Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army east of Vinnitsa and north of Khrystinovka, where Vatutin is attempting to break through the Odessa-Warsaw railway and the Rumanian frontier. All enemy assaults have been repulsed, the war communique reported.

To Employ 250

A shortage of carpenters and other construction workers and inclement weather have held back work on the structures, but the company hopes that after the buildings are under roof work will advance rapidly enough to finish within the time scheduled.

Two hundred and fifty persons will be employed in the new factory, it was stated. The present plant, housed temporarily in the community building, has about 75 employees.

A second floor has been constructed in the former church. Offices will be constructed on that floor. The first floor of the former church building will be used for cutting machinery.

Miss Allison Resigns Post

The resignation of Miss Emily Allison as superintendent of the Annie M. Warner hospital was announced today by Dr. E. H. Markley, president of the hospital.

Miss Allison tendered her resignation on Monday following her return from Philadelphia. The resignation, which takes effect immediately, has been accepted, Dr. Markley stated, although no plans have been completed for the appointment of a successor to the position.

Miss Allison, who came to the local hospital early in 1943 from the Fredericksburg, Virginia hospital, has not divulged her future plans.

WLB Flayed By House Group On Charge Of "Illegal" Operations

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The National War Labor board was accused by a special House committee today of violating the constitution by requiring maintenance-of-union membership clauses in contracts between workers and employers.

The committee, set up to investigate "acts of executive agencies beyond the scope of their authority," declared in a blistering report to the House that the constitution can not be suspended by the president or his agents "merely because a state of war exists."

If the Labor Board's "autocratic challenge to constitutional authority remains unanswered and unremedied," the report said, "it will imperil our present economic system and will mark the transition of our government from one of laws to one of men."

LOCAL PILOT PROGRAM MAY BE RETAINED

There was much speculation in Gettysburg today over press and radio dispatches from Washington to the effect that the House Military Affairs Committee of Congress may recommend abolition of a large part of the Army's Specialized Training program soon in a move designed to save an estimated 200,000 pre-war fathers from military induction.

All information out of Washington came from private disclosures by members of the committee. There was no official announcement of any definite curtailment program. Neither was it indicated that the curtailment, if adopted, would affect the 55th College Training Detachment operating at Gettysburg College and the Gettysburg School of Aeronautics.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, this morning made this curt statement: "The program that Gettysburg college has is very probably the last one to be disturbed and I see no reason for anyone to be unduly alarmed."

William L. Dentler, Cashtown, was named by Governor Martin as justice of the peace for Franklin township to succeed Floyd N. Hartman, deceased. Dentler's term will end in January, 1946.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The Reader's Digest published a story and Gettysburg got some unfavorable publicity. Now the Reader's Digest is getting a taste of readers' distaste as a result.

All the fuss evolved around the little yarn about General Marshall and Field Marshal Sir John Dill's visit to the Battlefield and their reported correction of a Battlefield guide's story. The yarn's newest repudiation comes from Private George M. Gilbert, at Camp Barkeley, Texas.

Gilbert took The Reader's Digest to task for the yarn.

The Digest answered as follows:

"Frankly, we don't know how to reply to your criticism of our short article about General Marshall's visit to Gettysburg. The item was contributed by Thomas M. Johnson.

"We're forwarding your letter, and the clipping you enclosed, to him, and he will get in touch with you either directly or through us."

Then Mr. Thomas M. Johnson,

New York N. Y., wrote to Private Gilbert as follows:

"Your letter of January 5 with enclosed clipping has been forwarded to me and I am glad to reply.

"The anecdote about General Marshall and Field Marshal Sir John Dill at Gettysburg was told me by an Army officer in whom I had every reason to have confidence. He has now gone, I am told, to an active theatre of operations. The article was passed by the War Dept. (Please Turn to Page 7)

MILLION GOAL FOR SOLDIERS' SHOW FEB. 14

More than one million dollars in war bonds is the goal set for the all-soldier revue "Ten Nights In A Squadroom" to be presented in the Majestic theater, February 14th by a cast of 65 men from the Carlisle barracks. The 1,138 seats in the theater have been scaled to net $1,008,200 in war bonds during the Fourth War Bond drive. The chart and tickets in exchange for war bond purchase coupons will open Monday, Sydney J. Poppay, chairman of the committee, said today.

The entire show is centered around the Musical Medicos under the direction of Sergeant Ray Hartman, the 30-voice glee club led by Pfc. Cecil Oyler and an all-male dancing chorus.

Sergeant Army Entine will be master of ceremonies. His stooge will be Pfc. Frank Bauer, famous for his impersonation of Hitler in "Der Fuehrer's Face" and "Pistol Packing Mamma." Bauer also will be featured in "A Ton of Fun" to be presented by the Barrackaters.

Featured Selections

Some of the featured musical selections will include:

"The National anthem, 'Howdy Do, Bond Buyers, Howdy Do,' by the glee club and Musical Medicos; 'El Capitán' in swing fashion; Marimba solo, 'Mission to Moscow'; 'This Is My Country'; 'Sky Anchors,' 'Lower Basin Street Special.' The latter will present nine soldiers on woodwind instruments in a jam session with Don Mayer as announcer. Pfc. James Yestadt will give a piano solo 'Rhapsody In Blue' and Pfc. Neal Leeper will sing 'I'll Be Around' accompanied by the Musical Medicos.

A comedy act, 'Hold Onto Your Hats' will be one of the highlights of the show. However, details are being withheld until the night of the show.

A trumpet trio will play 'A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody' and members of the band will render a selection on small bottles.

BOND SALES IN COUNTY REACH $294,480 TODAY

Adams countians purchased an additional $39,825 worth of war bonds during the past 24 hours to boost the county's total in the Fourth War Bond campaign to $294,480.25. Elmer W. Warren, compiling daily statistics during the campaign, reported shortly before noon today.

Mr. Warren also reported that sales of "E" bonds totaled $145,280.25, a little more than one-third of the county quota of $494,567. The latter figure is an increase of $40,000 over the first announced quota, the increase being announced by state headquarters Tuesday.

Commenting on the progress of the campaign thus far Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the County War Finance committee, referred to a recent editorial in The Philadelphia Bulletin as "best portraying the true picture of the present drive."

The editorial, captioned "The Measure of a Man," follows: "It is necessary that the progress of the Fourth War Loan be measured against the total it aims to reach, and against the quotas assigned to the specific communities and collection areas. It may be measured, too, by the percentage subscribed within a given time and the distance still to go."

"His Own Yardstick"
"But these calculations have nothing much to do with the individual bond-buyer, any more than the soldier in action can stop to calculate whether he has done more or less than his duty. Every subscriber to the Fourth War Loan is his own yardstick. He knows and decides (Please Turn to Page 2)

Yankees Cross Rapido And Enter Cassino; Hospital Ship Is Sunk

By WES GALLAGHER

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Jan. 26 (AP)—U.S. troops have stormed across the Rapido river in renewed battle for Cassino—already entered by paratroops, field dispatches said—and Fifth army invasion forces below Rome have speared deeper against "increasing resistance," it was announced today.

The Nazis apparently were pulling units back from the Cassino front to meet the great threat to their rear.

It now seems certain the invasion thrust has at least cut the Apennine way, and seriously threatens the remaining Cassino-Rome highway, perhaps having it under artillery fire.

American combat units are advancing through minefields north of Cassino after a second crossing of the Rapido river, a headquarters officer declared.

Headquarters said it had no information that Cassino yet had been taken.

Light Resistance

French troops north of the bastion town were forced from Mt. Groce by bitter Nazi counterattacks, with close fighting continuing.

While the Germans threw increasing opposition against the invasion troops who landed in the Nettuno-Anzio areas, an Allied officer said this resistance still was "comparatively light."

Cairo radio said the Allies were 19 miles from Rome.

The troops were spurred by another visit from Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark, Fifth army commander, who expressed satisfaction with their progress.

German planes struck at the sea armadas, and an official announcement declared Nazi bombers had attacked three hospital ships well outside the invasion zone, sinking one of them. All three were lighted and carried Red Cross markings.

Pound Supply Lines

Allied planes in powerful numbers concentrated on slashing at enemy supply routes and troops between the Fifth army front and the new beachhead, and the main line between Florence and Rome, which the Germans must use to get reinforcements to the Rome area.

The Allies flew 1,100 sorties over the beachhead yesterday, compared with 60 by the Nazis. An American naval officer said the enemy attacks were causing "some trouble" however.

He disclosed that Allied warships, including French, had heavily bombarded the road between Terracina and Formia by daylight Monday, and made diversionary bombardments along the coast.

250,000 Nazis Trapped; 54 Jap Planes Downed; Argentina - Axis Break

By STANLEY ROSS

Buenos Aires, Jan. 26 (AP)—Argentine severed diplomatic relations with Germany and Japan today to complete belatedly a solid stand by the western hemisphere against the Axis.

The last of 21 republics in the Americas to break off relations with Germany and Japan, Argentina announced the action after a long night of conferences among leaders of the government of President Gen. Pedro Ramirez.

While these discussions were in progress, it also was revealed today, police were busy rounding up many persons—some reported to be members of Argentine society—in an extensive espionage ring which has been operating in the country.

Ambassadors To Leave

President Ramirez himself arranged to broadcast his government's decision to the people.

Following Ramirez' signing of the decree ending relations, it was announced that the German and Japanese ambassadors would be handed their passports immediately.

The action today, two years after most of the Latin American countries had cut their connections with the Axis, followed an announcement last week of the arrest by the British of an Argentine consul when his boat stopped at Trinidad enroute to Europe.

The consul, Osmar Alberto Helmut, was on his way to Barcelona, Spain, when he was removed from the boat and charged with spying.

Many Arrested

Acting on evidence supplied by British authorities, Argentine began rounding up numerous persons implicated in the ring.

(Montevideo dispatches said the espionage ring had been working in close touch with the German and Japanese embassies in Buenos Aires.)

(Subversive activities, apparently originating in Argentina, were held responsible by the United States, Britain and other countries for the overthrow of the Bolivian government in December. Argentina alone has seen fit to recognize the new Bolivian regime headed by Maj. Gualberto Villarroel.

Other Destruction

On the basis of communiques, Allied planes have wiped out more than 300 Japanese aircraft at Rabaul alone since January 1. Attempts to fight off attacks on the Marshall Islands and air battles in the China-Burma-India theatre have cost the enemy at least 100 additional planes.

As a part of the aerial offensive against Japanese bases in the Bismarck Archipelago, Allied planes bombed the Admiralty Islands along a 50-mile length of troop and supply concentrations. The destruction included seven parked planes, 12 barges, two luggers, three small freighters and many buildings.

MacArthur Receives Third

By MURLIN SPENCER

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt awarded General Douglas MacArthur the Distinguished Service medal for successes in New Guinea and New Britain on the southwest Pacific commander's 64th birthday today.

The President said in his citation that MacArthur had "established his forces in positions favorable for continuation of offensive operations" in the war to drive the Japanese from their island bases in this sector.

The medal was awarded on behalf of the President by Maj. Gen. Richard J. Marshall, deputy chief of staff, on MacArthur's return from inspecting American troops in northern Australia.

Japanese losses throughout the embattled Pacific rose above the 400 mark for January today after another Allied raid on bomb-torn Rabaul that cost the enemy between 54 and 69 aircraft.

In shipping, too, the Japanese received hard new blows as U. S. 14th Airforce fliers—credited with sinking 17 enemy ships during December—destroyed five vessels totaling 9,900 tons off Fuchow on the east China coast.

Damaged 60 Ships

Lashing at Japanese communications in southern Burma, Allied fighter planes damaged more than 60 river craft and a steamer. New Delhi also reported fresh fighting in the northern Burma campaign to clear the way for the new Ledo road to China.

The latest of the smashing timetable strikes at Rabaul brought the statement by Maj. Gen. Ralph Mitchell, commander of South Pacific air squadrons, that it was "the most successful offensive operation in the history of Solomon warfare."

American and New Zealand units, attacking the Lakunai airdrome in pre-dawn and afternoon sweeps Sunday, shot down 46 Japanese interceptors for certain and 15 probables. In addition, eight parked planes were destroyed. The raiders lost two bombers and three fighters, but one bomber crew and a fighter pilot were rescued.

Railway Breached

These lines, however, were simultaneously threatened by the westward advance of Gen. K. A. Meretskov's Volkov Army from Novgorod, which already is reported close to the junction points so vital to German escape plans.

The main Moscow - Leningrad railway was breached in a swift drive from Kirishi, 28 miles northeast of Chuevoo.

In the Ukraine, strong German tank and infantry forces continued their counter-attacks against Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army east of Vinnitsa and north of Khristinovka, where Vatutin is attempting to break through the Odessa-Warsaw railway and the Rumanian frontier. All enemy assaults have been repulsed, the war communique reported.

THINGS GOING WELL FOR ALLIES ON ALL FRONTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)
From the military standpoint things go well for the Allies in all theaters of our global war, but while the enemy's striking-power at arms is visibly deteriorating, he is managing by persistent and insidious means to create international political crises which are a grave menace to the security of the United Nations.
The evil Hitler's propagandists are busy trying to cause dissension among the Allies, especially among Russia, Britain and America, upon whose amicable cooperation depends the winning of this war and the peace to follow. His agents are boring into the vitals of every country, including our own, in an effort to create internal disorganization and thus damage the war effort.
All this is a part of Der Fuehrer's general strategy of fighting delaying actions, both military and political, in the hope that time will produce some upheaval which will give him the victory that is denied his armies. Protraction of the war is his last desperate chance of salvaging something from the wreckage he has created.
Bolivian Hot Spot
One of the fields to which the Axis has been devoting tremendous energy is South America. The Hitlerian purpose is two-fold: To create bases which will give him immediate help in his war against the forces of civilization, and to try to disrupt the unity of the Western hemisphere and thus weaken the strength of the Allies to make war.
There is still another factor, for the German and Japanese agents not only are inspired by a desire to help the Axis, but are taking advantage of the opportunity to feather their own nests. Some of the greatest individual graft the world has known has grown out of the unholy Axis operations. Count Ciano, Mussolini's unblemished crown prince and son-in-law, was reputed to have made himself one of the world's richest men. The fat Hermann Goering, runner up to Hitler, started from nothing and is now a croesus.
One of the latest hot-spots in the Western hemisphere is Bolivia, whose people we are happy to count among our friends, but which seems to have stubbed its toe badly in permitting the creation of a government which other leading South American nations have hastened to disavow and which both the United States and Britain have refused to recognize. The United States flatly says the Bolivian coup was linked with a "general subversive movement" to undermine the Allied war effort in this hemisphere.
Building In Sands
One of the most significant things in connection with this development is the solidarity of the United States and Britain on the question. There is a school which has thought that because of American and British rivalry for South American trade these two great powers might not stand together on political issues of the Western hemisphere—that Britain always would be open for South American trade even if the United States was not.
That's an argument not founded on sound reasoning. One point on which Britain and the United States cannot differ is the danger of Nazism and Fascism to Democracy and religion. The Allies aren't going to extend themselves to the limit to uproot these isms and destroy them in the Axis countries and then overlook them in other parts of the world.
Thus those countries which now give aid and comfort to the Axis are building on shifting sands. The Axis soon will disappear from the face of the earth, and its friends cannot expect then to be received with open arms by the United Nations which have stood together to destroy it. To the victors belongs the spoils.

FARMERS LEARN HOW TO REPAIR OWN MACHINERY

Adams county's farmers are back in school.
At Fairfield, Gettysburg and in other sections of the county, many agriculturalists, from 19 to 70, are spending their spare evening hours in courses provided by the local high schools using state and federal funds to learn more of their chosen profession.
Farm machinery repair is the big thing at the moment in the farmers' educational plans. The machinery now on the farms must last out the war and until the makers of plows, tractors, harrows, binders, sprayers and other types of farm machinery can begin once more making on a large scale machines to till and harvest the nation's crops.
Mechanics for the Farm
At Fairfield Tuesday evening 17 men from the section of the county extending from Zora to Orrtanna were working industriously at machines they brought to the class to learn what really makes the equipment tick and to learn how to do their own repairing. The need for the classes is obvious, the farmers say. The machines must be used if the county is to reach the food quotas that have been given it. If they are to be used they must be in first-class condition. If they are to be put into first class condition the farmer must become his own mechanic and do the job.
The school board at Fairfield approved the course and then the farmers set up a committee to decide what should be taught and when it should be taught.
The teacher, Floyd V. Carbaugh, Gettysburg, is "Floyd" to the class, and when a member of the class decides his idea of how to put a complicated piece of machinery together is better than the instructor's the group gets together and talks the entire matter over until the best method is hit upon.
Fairfield Typical
The set-up for the course at Fairfield is typical of the courses being given at high school centers where there is no farm shop connected with the school.
Harper Hiner's garage is the location for the course, with the school building rent for the use of the building, tools and lights and being reimbursed from federal and state funds provided for such courses under the Farm Security Administration.
After the school board approved the idea Dr. Anson Hamm, principal of the Fairfield schools set up an advisory committee including Dwight Strausbaugh, near Orrtanna, chairman; Ellis Stine, near Orrtanna; John Beard, Gettysburg R. D.; Calvin Bream, near Orrtanna and Wm. White, Jr., Iron Springs. The committee went among the farmers of the area, talked over the matter with them and found out how many would be interested in a course and what they wanted to study. Then the committee reported the group wanted a farm machinery repair course. They set the opening date and worked out car travel pools so that the men could get to Fairfield to take the course without using too much rationed gasoline.
Second Course
The fourteen-week course opened January 11 and is held each Tuesday and Thursday evening from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock. The present schedule calls for the class to close about April 6, but the farmers may decide more instruction is needed and extend the class. The course is the second Out-of-School Youth and Adults class to be held at Fairfield, with a similar course conducted there last year.
At Fairfield Tuesday evening one group was engaged in oiling a rebuilt machine. Another group was taking apart a corn planter preparatory to cleaning, repairing and rebuilding it. A number of the men were working on a drag harrow, adding needed parts. Two men were engaged in fitting new handles to a plow and another man was painting a reconditioned plow. Between times the men would weld parts that needed that type of repair.
Among the machines renovated at Fairfield so far are two grain drills, an orchard harrow, horse drawn plow, the corn planter and many smaller articles. Among the machines that will be rebuilt in future classes are a tractor plow, corn binder, mowers and other equipment.
Members Listed
Besides repairing the machines the courses also take up methods of preserving the machines after they have been renovated. The instructor tells just why each part became broken, rusted through or otherwise became useless and the group discusses ways in which the destruction of the part could have been prevented.

whether he is measuring up to his duty and his abilities.
"Honest realization of this individual responsibility is the surest guarantee of quick and convincing success for the campaign. There is no serious question that the American people as a whole can afford to over-subscribe the Fourth War Loan. The quota assigned to individual subscribers, in the Philadelphia area and all over the country, is well within their abilities. They have sufficient money to spare for investment in the soundest of all securities—an early victory which will secure their lives, their liberties and their pursuit of happiness.
Talk to Workers
"It is meaningless to measure a citizen's response to the nation's need against a formidable row of figures. The better scale is his own conscience and sense of duty, which make the measure of a man."
Mr. Thomas made an appeal to heads of industries in the county to make arrangements to have Radioman 2-C Robert Finger address workers on his experiences in the PT service in the South Pacific.
News Briefs
Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Secretary D. L. Corgan of the Pennsylvania Anthracite committee today declared employment of free lance miners by large hard coal operators is needed to relieve a coal shortage in Philadelphia.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 26 (AP)—The State Court of Pardons today sealed the doom of John Swan, New Brunswick negro, when it refused to commute to life imprisonment his sentence to die the week of February 13 for the murder of Marlon Oliver, 20-year-old factory worker, who once lived at Ligonier, Pa.
The court's decision was announced at the close of a hearing in the office of Governor Walter E. Edge, presiding officer of the clemency tribunal.

Labor Situation Concerns Growers
Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—A tight labor situation is causing concern among Pennsylvania vegetable growers now planning for the 1944 season. Agriculture Department Statistician E. L. Gasteiger reported today, adding the growers "are intending to plant accordingly."
The department's federal-state crop reporting service also announced stored vegetable crops of all kinds are rapidly becoming exhausted in all areas of the state and those still in the hands of dealers and farmers are finding a ready market. Supplies of stored onions were exhausted by Jan. 1 compared with 3,000 sacks of 100 pounds each a year ago.
Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt again today stepped into the congressional wrangle over votes for soldiers with sharp criticism of a measure passed by the Senate last month and a demand for "adequate legislation."
In a message to Congress, the chief executive described the bill approved by the Senate December 3 and now pending before the House as "meaningless." It would turn the whole job of implementing soldier balloting over to the states.
"I consider such proposed legislation," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "a fraud on the soldiers and sailors and marines now training and fighting for us and for our sacred rights. It is a fraud upon the American people."
Endorsing substitute measures proposed by Senators Green (D-R.I.) and Lucas (D-Ill.) and by Rep. Worley (D-Tex.), the President said:
"What is needed is a complete change of machinery for absentee balloting, which will give the members of our armed forces and merchant-marine all over the world an opportunity to cast their ballots without time-consuming correspondence and without waiting for each separate state to hold its primary, print its ballots, and send them out for voting."
"The recent bills proposed by Senators Green and Lucas and by Congressman Worley x x x seem to me to do this job. They set up proper and efficient machinery for absentee balloting."

THINGS GOING WELL FOR ALLIES ON ALL FRONTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press War Analyst)

From the military standpoint things go well for the Allies in all theaters of our global war, but while the enemy's striking-power at arms is visibly deteriorating, he is managing by persistent and insidious means to create international political crises which are a grave menace to the security of the United Nations.

The evil Hitler's propagandists are busy trying to cause dissension among the Allies, especially among Russia, Britain and America, upon whose amicable cooperation depends the winning of this war and the peace to follow. His agents are boring into the vitals of every country, including our own, in an effort to create internal disorganization and thus damage the war effort.

All this is a part of Der Fuehrer's general strategy of fighting delaying actions, both military and political, in the hope that time will produce some upheaval which will give him the victory that is denied his armies. Protraction of the war is his last desperate chance of salvaging something from the wreckage he has created.

Bolivian Hot Spot

One of the fields to which the Axis has been devoting tremendous energy is South America. The Hitlerian purpose is two-fold: To create bases which will give him immediate help in his war against the forces of civilization, and to try to disrupt the unity of the Western hemisphere and thus weaken the strength of the Allies to make war.

There is still another factor, for the German and Japanese agents not only are inspired by a desire to help the Axis, but are taking advantage of the opportunity to feather their own nests. Some of the greatest individual graft the world has known has grown out of the unholy Axis operations. Count Ciano, Mussolini's unrelenting crown prince and son-in-law, was reputed to have made himself one of the world's richest men. The fat Hermann Goering, runner up to Hitler, started from nothing and is now a croesus.

One of the latest hot-spots in the Western hemisphere is Bolivia, whose people we are happy to count among our friends, but which seems to have stubbed its toe badly in permitting the creation of a government which other leading South American nations have hastened to disavow and which both the United States and Britain have refused to recognize. The United States flatly says the Bolivian coup was linked with a "general subversive movement" to undermine the Allied war effort in this hemisphere.

Building In Sands

One of the most significant things in connection with this development is the solidarity of the United States and Britain on the question. There is a school which has thought that because of American and British rivalry for South American trade these two great powers might not stand together on political issues of the Western hemisphere—that Britain always would be open for South American trade even if the United States was not.

That's an argument not founded on sound reasoning. One point on which Britain and the United States cannot differ is the danger of Nazism and Fascism to Democracy and religion. The Allies aren't going to extend themselves to the limit to uproot these isms and destroy them in the Axis countries and then overlook them in other parts of the world.

Thus those countries which now give aid and comfort to the Axis are building on shifting sands. The Axis soon will disappear from the face of the earth, and its friends cannot expect then to be received with open arms by the United Nations which have stood together to destroy it. To the victors belongs the spoils.

Cites Spiritual Needs Of Future

New Wilmington, Pa., Jan. 26 (AP)—"The world is doomed to destruction if we fail to develop our spiritual resources to keep pace with technological advances in the post-war world," 19 sailors comprising Westminster College's mid-year graduating class were told last night by Dr. Robert P. Galbreath, president of the college.

He said: "If you cannot match the fervor of the scientist with the faith and fervor of the humanitarian I tell you you and your world are lost."

Citing "modern prophets" who have painted a rosy picture of the world of tomorrow revolutionized by new inventions and push button gadgets to do man's work, Dr. Galbreath warned that these same technological developments "can bring about man's downfall if permitted to go unchecked."

Six of the graduates are serving in the armed forces.

There are more than 3,000,000 bicycles in Sweden.

Refuse Yank Offer To Aid Red-Pole Fuss

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull announced today that Russia had rejected the offer of the United States to employ its "good offices" in restoring diplomatic relations between Poland and Russia.

Hull made the announcement at a news conference.

He brought out that the Russians took the position that they do not feel the situation between themselves and Poland is right for successful use of the U. S. offer at this time.

The reply states, Hull said, that the Soviet government does not feel that conditions have yet ripened to a point where such good offices could be used to advantage.

The Russians began their note of rejection, he said, with an expression of appreciation for the offer.

What further action, if any, the United States may take, either alone or in cooperation with Britain, which also had offered to seek a resumption of relations between Poland and Russia, remained unanswered by Hull.

PLAN THE GARDEN

Now is the time to plan the garden, to order seeds and the tools and fertilizers that will be needed during the season.

FARMERS LEARN HOW TO REPAIR OWN MACHINERY

Adams county's farmers are back in school.

At Fairfield, Gettysburg and in other sections of the county, many agriculturalists, from 19 to 70, are spending their spare evening hours in courses provided by the local high schools using state and federal funds to learn more of their chosen profession.

Farm machinery repair is the big thing at the moment in the farmers' educational plans. The machinery now on the farms must last out the war and until the makers of plows, tractors, harrows, binders, sprayers and other types of farm machinery can begin once more making on a large scale machines to till and harvest the nation's crops.

Mechanics for the Farm

At Fairfield Tuesday evening 17 men from the section of the county extending from Zora to Orrtanna were working industriously at machines they brought to the class to learn what really makes the equipment tick and to learn how to do their own repairing. The need for the classes is obvious, the farmers say. The machines must be used if the county is to reach the food quotas that have been given it. If they are to be used they must be in first-class condition. If they are to be put into first class condition the farmer must become his own mechanic and do the job.

The school board at Fairfield approved the course and then the farmers set up a committee to decide what should be taught and when it should be taught.

The teacher, Floyd V. Carbaugh, Gettysburg, is "Floyd" to the class, and when a member of the class decides his idea of how to put a complicated piece of machinery together is better than the instructor's the group gets together and talks the entire matter over until the best method is hit upon.

Fairfield Typical

The set-up for the course at Fairfield is typical of the courses being given at high school centers where there is no farm shop connected with the school.

Harper Hiner's garage is the location for the course, with the school board paying rent for the use of the building, tools and lights and being reimbursed from federal and state funds provided for such courses under the Farm Security Administration.

After the school board approved the idea Dr. Anson Hamm, principal of the Fairfield schools set up an advisory committee including Dwight Strausbaugh, near Orrtanna, chairman; Ellis Stine, near Orrtanna; John Beard, Gettysburg R. D.; Calvin Bream, near Orrtanna and Wm. White, Jr., Iron Springs. The committee went among the farmers of the area, talked over the matter with them and found out how many would be interested in a course and what they wanted to study. Then the committee reported the group wanted a farm machinery repair course. They set the opening date and worked out car travel pools so that the men could get to Fairfield to take the course without using too much rationed gasoline.

Second Course

The fourteen-week course opened January 11 and is held each Tuesday and Thursday evening from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock. The present schedule calls for the class to close about April 6, but the farmers may decide more instruction is needed and extend the class. The course is the second Out-of-School Youth and Adults class to be held at Fairfield, with a similar course conducted there last year.

At Fairfield Tuesday evening one group was engaged in oiling a re-bulb machine. Another group was taking apart a corn planter preparatory to cleaning, repairing and rebuilding it. A number of the men were working on a drag harrow, adding needed parts. Two men were engaged in fitting new handles to a plow and another man was painting a reconditioned plow. Between times the men would weld parts that needed that type of repair.

Among the machines renovated at Fairfield so far are two grain drills, an orchard harrow, horse drawn plow, the corn planter and many smaller articles. Among the machines that will be rebuilt in future classes are a tractor plow, corn binder, mowers and other equipment.

Members Listed

Besides repairing the machines the courses also take up methods of preserving the machines after they have been renovated. The instructor tells just why each part became broken, rusted through or otherwise became useless and the group discusses ways in which the destruction of the part could have been prevented.

Members of the class at Fairfield include John Beard, Howard Diehl, John Diehl, Marshall Slonaker, Ellis Stine, William White, Jr., Harry Musselman, Alphonso Pecher, Raymond Hobbs, George Pecher, Ellis Bream, Guy W. Harner, Dwight Strausbaugh, Charles Stoner, Murray Stoner, Roy Strayer and William McClellan.

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—The War Production Board has no intention of creating a stockpile of newsprint, Arthur R. Treanor, director of the printing and publishing division, Tuesday told a House subcommittee investigating newsprint supplies.

"There have been conflicting reports and rumors about the newsprint situation in general and, in particular, that the United States government is going to purchase newsprint and create a stockpile," Treanor testified.

Labor Situation

Concerns Growers

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—A tight labor situation is causing concern among Pennsylvania vegetable growers now planning for the 1944 season. Agriculture Department Statistician E. L. Gasteiger reported today, adding the growers "are intending to plant accordingly."

The department's federal-state crop reporting service also announced stored vegetable crops of all kinds are rapidly becoming exhausted in all areas of the state and those still in the hands of dealers and farmers are finding a ready market. Supplies of stored onions were exhausted by Jan. 1 compared with 3,000 sacks of 100 pounds each a year ago.

It was learned, however, from an unofficial source, that the present air corps may be curtailed by one-third, that is the training of pilots reduced from 90,000 per month to 60,000 throughout the country. This information, however, is not official.

The present war training program is scheduled to close June 30th of this year unless Congress authorizes a continuation. It started in 1939 as a Civilian Pilot Training program and was later amended to the present course. However, it was explained, that the program can be continued by various means.

GORMAN'S GOAL TRIPS CARLISLE BY 33-31 SCORE

A goal from midcourt by George Gorman with less than a minute of play remaining gave the Gettysburg high cagers a hard-earned 33-31 victory over the Carlisle high dribblers Tuesday evening at Carlisle.

Carlisle, victors in but four of 11 games this year, offered unexpected opposition to the Maroons. The Green and White five played a great game throughout and as a result the lead see-sawed from start to finish.

Coach Dry's boys got off to a 3-0 lead in the first period but Carlisle quickly recovered and from then on until the finish the score was close. At half time Gettysburg led 21-19.

Scoring was at a minimum in the third period when Carlisle tallied four points on a pair of goals by Hoffman while the Maroons' only tally was a goal by March.

Win on Rally

Carlisle led 31-30 with about a minute and a half of play remaining. Eisenhower was fouled and promptly made good his free throw to tie up the count and then a few seconds later Gorman cut loose with his winning toss.

George Fair topped the scorers for the evening with 15 points and played an excellent all-around game. Top man for Carlisle was Shenk with six goals.

The victory marked the seven in nine starts for Gettysburg.

Jayvees Win

Coach Roger Smith's jayvees gave another good exhibition in the preliminary game to walk off with a 39-17 decision. There was never any doubt as to the outcome especially after the third period when the locals rang up 15 points.

On Friday evening the Maroons will meet Delone Catholic at McSherrystown.

Hershey Loses At Cleveland Again

(By The Associated Press) Hershey eastern division leader in the American Hockey league, hasn't won a game all season at Cleveland and last night was no exception.

The Barons, leaders in the western division, chalked up a 5 to 2 decision before 10,584 and took a four-point lead in the battle for unofficial first place. Cleveland now has 49 points to 45 for Hershey.

The Ohiolans jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first period on goals by Phil Hergeshimer, Tommy Burlington and Whitey Prokop and went on to skate to a convincing triumph. The Barons have lost only one game in their last 13 starts.

Wally Kilrea, Hershey star, was held scoreless in his last league game before he reports to the Army on Thursday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Don't laugh at that saddle shoe Susele who's trying manfully to lug your golf clubs around the course, mister. In another five years you may be taking lessons from her. . . . That's the opinion of George Corcoran, the Greensboro, North Carolina, golf pro who first proposed a feminine PGA. . . . Caddies always have grown up to become pros, George explains, and the gals who have taken up caddying the past year or two are no different. . . . In fact, they're better prospects, because girls naturally have better rhythm and are keener students. . . . "They draw more accurate mental pictures and as a result develop better swings. They don't try to use brute strength like a man," says George. . . . Okay, they're copy cats, if that will soothe your masculine vanity, but wasn't it Bobby Jones who called Joyce Wethered the best golfer, man or woman, he ever had seen?

LET'S CALL NAMES

The girls shouldn't have any trouble finding the 25 stars that Betty Hicks thinks will be needed to start a women's PGA after the war. . . . Besides Miss Hicks, Patty Berg, Helen Dettwiler and other well-known players, Corcoran names such expert golf teachers as Helen McDonald of Chicago, who "has taught a lot of big shots though they probably wouldn't admit it," Elizabeth Gordon of Providence, Rhode Island, Virginia Pepp of St. Louis, Virginia Hayes of Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Helen B. Schleman, author of a book on group golf instruction. . . . There will be plenty of sobs for the newcomers, too, because many small clubs could afford a woman pro though they can't pay the price for a man who has a family to raise.

DO IT AGAIN, BOYS

When Virginia's basketball team opened its season against the Woodrow Wilson Army Hospital, the five Cavalier regulars popped in a basket apiece in this order: Keith Harder, right forward, Harry Riggs, left forward, Dave Wilson, center, Bill Pickett, right guard, and Bill McBratney, left guard. . . . Then the hospital players made their first basket. . . . Unfair to the Virginia coach we call it.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Bob Steuber's basketball team-mates at Marquette are wondering why Bob, who played with the Chicago Bears during last fall's exhibitions and the first league game before the Navy sent him to De Pauw, wasn't given a cut of the Bears' playoff dough. . . . Under similar circumstances the Washington Redskins awarded Johnny Good-year a nice chunk of dough and the Giants did all right by Don Vosberg the year before. . . . When asked to help New York's war bond hockey show, Boston's tough trader, Art Ross, gave Goalle Bert Gardiner permission to play and added "the expenses are on me." . . . Marine Lieut. Dave Rankin, former Purdue football star, doesn't waste any words describing his feat of shooting down two Jap dive bombers. . . . "Had a little fracas the other day," Dave wrote, "and ended up shooting down a few Nips."

Would Take Doe Dispute To Martin

Emporium, Pa., Jan. 26 (AP)—The verbal crossfire between the State Game Commission and Northwest Pennsylvania Sportsmen produced more sparks today after a spokesman for the sportsmen announced they were pressing Gov. Edward Martin to listen to their complaint against the commission. Cameron County District Attorney Edwin T. Tompkins, representing hunters dissatisfied with the game commission's granting an open deer season last month over their protest, said last night:

"We did not question the fairness of the commission in declaring an open season. What we did question were the methods and practices employed by the commission, its officers and agents in disqualifying a petition from Cameron county under section 5010 of the game code after the same was legally and constitutionally filed to abrogate the season."

IKE WILLIAMS IS KNOCKED OUT BY MONTGOMERY

Philadelphia, Jan. 26 (AP)—Bob Montgomery today was on the comeback trail toward his lost lightweight title with fire in his eye after blasting Ike Williams, the Trenton, New Jersey, terror into oblivion in the last round of their scheduled 12-rounder at Convention Hall last night.

Pointing toward his promised return title match with Beau Jack, the Philadelphia Bobcat hammered Williams mercilessly for 11 rounds. The end came for the Trenton lightweight in 2 minutes and 49 seconds of the final stanza.

A fight thirsty crowd, officially announced at 14,807, paid $55,829 to see the Bobcat start his comeback by blasting Williams' 32-bout winning streak with a drumming body attack that softened the Trenton boy up for the final smash.

As Williams came out for the last round he walked into a flock of straight rights that fanned him twice for counts of eight. As the Trenton fighter lifted his beaten body from the canvass for the second time Montgomery whanged over another right which caught Williams flush on the jaw and draped him face down over the lower rope.

First Knockout for Ike

His face buried in typewriters and cameras in the press row, the Trenton batter was counted out by Referee Ernie Sesto, of Pittsburgh. His handlers worked over him for almost four minutes, after he was counted out, before he was able to sit up.

Williams opened the battle with a blistering pace that had the screaming crowd on its feet, but it was only a stout heart that kept him flinging leather in the last few rounds.

Montgomery, unmoved by Williams whamming leather at him from all angles in the early rounds, tucked his chin under his shoulder and kept boring in relentlessly. In the end his tactics paid off as he blacked out Williams for the first time in the Trenton fighter's career.

IKE WILLIAMS IS KNOCKED OUT BY MONTGOMERY

Philadelphia, Jan. 26 (AP)—Bob Montgomery today was on the comeback trail toward his lost lightweight title with fire in his eye after blasting Ike Williams, the Trenton, New Jersey, terror into oblivion in the last round of their scheduled 12-rounder at Convention Hall last night.

Pointing toward his promised return title match with Beau Jack, the Philadelphia Bobcat hammered Williams mercilessly for 11 rounds. The end came for the Trenton lightweight in 2 minutes and 49 seconds of the final stanza.

A fight thirsty crowd, officially announced at 14,807, paid $55,829 to see the Bobcat start his comeback by blasting Williams' 32-bout winning streak with a drumming body attack that softened the Trenton boy up for the final smash.

As Williams came out for the last round he walked into a flock of straight rights that floored him twice for counts of eight. As the Trenton fighter lifted his beaten body from the canvass for the second time Montgomery whanged over another right which caught Williams flush on the jaw and draped him face down over the lower rope.

First Knockout for Ike
His face buried in typewriters and cameras in the press row, the Trenton batter was counted out by Referee Ernie Sesto, of Pittsburgh. His handlers worked over him for almost four minutes, after he was counted out, before he was able to sit up.

Williams opened the battle with a blistering pace that had the screaming crowd on its feet, but it was only a stout heart that kept him flinging leather in the last few rounds.

Montgomery, unmoved by Williams whamming leather at him from all angles in the early rounds, tucked his chin under his shoulder and kept boring in relentlessly. In the end his tactics paid off as he blacked out Williams for the first time in the Trenton fighter's career.

New Oxford Girls Lose To St. Joe's

May Reopen Case Of CIO Application

Miami, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP)—The United Mine Workers' application for reaffiliation with the American Federation of Labor may be reopened today as the result of a request by UMW President John L. Lewis for a clarification of the AFL's terms.

The federation's executive council on Monday proposed that the United Mine Workers return "with the jurisdiction they had when they left the AFL."

A telegram which Lewis is understood to have sent to the council yesterday called for a clean-cut definition of what the council understands to be the UMW's former jurisdiction. Lewis' friends say that the jurisdiction over chemical workers, at least so far as coal derivatives are concerned, was implied if not expressed in the UMW charter which the federation suspended in 1936.

The federal government originally planned to reserve all of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas and parts of Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota for permanent residences of the Indians.

BIGLER SHARES 2 WITH LEMOYNE

Biglerville high divided a pair of West Shore scholastic league basketball games at Lemoyne Tuesday evening, the boys dropping a 28-17 verdict while the girls won 30-13.

For three periods the Cannery gave the Lemoyne boys a merry tussle but in the last quarter Lemoyne put on a driving finish to win handily. Eichelberger landed 15 points for Lemoyne.

Coach Sam Ehlman's unbeaten Biglerville girls remained at the top of the girls' division by winning the preliminary easily 30-13. It was the fourth league decision for Biglerville and their six straight win. Betty and Mary Roddy paced the victors by accounting for 24 points. The Biglerville sextet led 19-5 at half time.

Biglerville will send its teams to Arendtsville Friday evening for the first of the annual two-game series. The box scores:

HANOVER AGAIN DEFEATS DELONE

Delone Catholic high lost its third game of the season to Hanover high in a game played Tuesday evening in the McSherrystown floor. The final score was 25-23.

A poor first half in which they tallied but four points proved fatal to Coach Jake Drach's passers. Delone improved considerably in the second half and outscored the Nighthawks 19-11 but could not overcome their opponents.

Polmer, Trite and Gross each tallied eight points to set the scoring pace.

Delone will be host to the Gettysburg high passers at

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

QUATRIANS
GAMES

Though very pleasant things to play,
Games are but games at best, I'd say.
And it's too bad when playing ends
In loss of self-respect and friends.

THE DIFFICULTY
So easily a war begins!
But when the cannons cease,
So hard to know which nation wins
And how adjust the peace.

OLD SAYING
My father said it o'er and o'er:
"Just do the best you can.
Angels are asked to do no more.
Life asks no more of man."

WEAKLING
Those resolutions good I made Lie shattered in the dust.
'Twas ever so! Now I'm afraid
Myself I cannot trust.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

ALLIANCES

This brief space has never been devoted to controversial subjects. It has been dedicated from the very first to talks that might give hope, comfort and cheer to every reader.
I would like to depart from this object, at least this once, however, and make a few statements that I believe concern every lover of democratic ideals on this side of the world. I have long been a student of history and concerned with the events that have shaped the course of history.

This war, on the part of the free nations, will have failed in its high purposes if it ends with the making of alliances. If all the alliances in history could be put into pictures, you would note each one of them all spotted up with wars. They are breeders of wars, always have been and always will be.

What this world needs is a compact, unified, cooperative organization of all the nations into one helpful, working family. Benjamin Franklin had this idea a hundred and fifty years ago. Simon Bolivar initiated it in South America nearly a hundred and forty years ago in his Pan-American Union. There would be no sense in an alliance for the United States, for instance, with Canada, Mexico, or the other Republics to the south, for we are friends and intend to remain as such.

No nation, however, can afford to remain isolated from a world organization to preserve peace, by which all nations are blessed. Abraham Lincoln, in closing his first inaugural address, said: "We are not enemies.
We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection.
The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearth-stone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

The only permanent alliance, ordained by the Creator at the inception of life itself, should be this —an alliance of good will, friendliness, and economic equality among all nations, for only friends can work together for the good of all.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Influence."

RESOLUTION ON FEDERAL JUDGE PROBE IN HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—A resolution calling for an investigation of federal judges Albert W.
Johnson and Albert L. Watson of the Middle District Court of Pennsylvania was before the House today following rapid approval by the House Judiciary committee.

Action was taken by the judiciary committee less than 24 hours after the resolution was introduced by Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) who predicted the house will also approve it.

A second resolution to authorize expenditures up to $2,500 to conduct the investigation was referred to the committee on accounts where prompt action was also forecast by Sum-ners.

To Report To House
His committee, Sumners said, was informed by letter that the judicial council of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals had recommended an investigation of Judges Johnson and Watson in a resolution sent to the Department of Justice. He said he did not feel at liberty to make the letter public, but added:
"If the judicial council wishes to make known its resolution that, of course, is up to them."

The resolution would authorize the judiciary committee "to determine whether x x x said judges or either of them have been guilty of any high crime or misdemeanor which x x x requires the interposition of the constitutional powers of the House" and orders the committee to "report its findings to the House, together with such resolutions of impeachment or other recommendations as it deems proper."

Finds Deficiency Of Iron In Diets

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Reporting surveys show large percentages of Pennsylvanians are eating diets deficient in iron and other blood-building essentials, the State Health Department's Nutrition division warned such diets result in nutritional anemia in many cases.

"Fatigue and low resistance go hand in hand with anemia," declared Mrs. Anna dePlanter Bowes, chief of the division. "Thus, it becomes a health and industrial hazard."
Mrs. Bowes said adults need 12 milligrams of iron daily and children from 6 to 15 milligrams. She suggested that such foods as oysters, spinach, pork liver and cooked wheat cereals are food sources of iron.

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Every Pennsylvanian was urged by Governor Martin to join in the March

"There is urgent need for earnest study of the disease," declared the Governor in a statement.

"The war against this enemy, infantile paralysis must be fought ceaselessly and with ever increasing intensity until the dread malady is conquered."

VETS HAVE EYES ON OFFICES AND BALLOTS IN '44

By JACK BELL

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Members of Congress discovered today in the midst of their efforts to make the ballot available to service men and women that some war veterans not only want to vote but intend to run for office—and national office, at that.

Two special elections to fill vacancies in the House of Representatives are pointing up a growing tendency on the part of military men to enter the political lists this year.

Naval Lieutenant George E. Andrews, now stationed at Pearl Harbor, has become a candidate for Congress while on active duty. Andrews led a field of five in the first primary to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry B. Steagall in the third Alabama district. He faces a runoff for the nomination with Hubert Farmer, Dothan, Ala., lawyer.

Indicate New Trend
In Colorado, the Democrats have nominated Maj. Carl E. Wuerfelle, 30 year old wounded and bemailed hero of Pearl Harbor, Midway and more than 200 aerial combat missions, as their candidate in a March 7 special election to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. Lawrence Lewis, a Democrat. The Republicans nominated Dean M. Gillespie, 59 year old business man and
New Deal critic.

Wuerfelle was nominated while he was in a hospital undergoing treatment for a foot wound. Unless he is granted a medical discharge, he can not campaign for himself.
These two cases apparently are representative of a new political trend that seems to be spreading.

Plan Monthly C-D Exercises For Staff

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Monthly control center exercises supplemented by local drills will be inaugurated by the State Defense Council to keep Pennsylvania's air raid protection organization at peak efficiency.

The program, which was approved by county defense chairman here yesterday, will be partial substitute for practice blackouts and alerts, reduced by the Army to one every three months, but it will not involve the public.

The Council announced control center exercises will be held on a different night during the second week of each month. Local drills will be called at the discretion of local leaders.

Asserting there is "little evidence to support the popular opinion that the war is nearly won," Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, state director, advised industry, business or civilian defense "to assume that it will be a long war" in making any plans.

Seek Cooperative Effort On Postwar Farm-Business Link

Plans for solving post-war problems will be considered by a joint committee of Pennsylvania business and agriculture as a result of a suggestion made during Farm Show Week in Harrisburg by Roland N.
Benjamin, secretary of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Cooperative association.

The Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers association, the Pennsylvania Chain Store council and the Farm Bureau have laid plans for the formation of a committee which, according to Mr. Benjamin,
"may decide the kind of world we will live in during the days ahead."
Mr. Benjamin, speaking at a joint meeting of the three organizations in the state capitol on the closing day of Farm Show Week, said the

SEVEN CHARGED WITH STEALING GAS COUPONS

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Seven York county men are charged in federal warrants with illegally acquiring or disposing of various quantities of ration stamps as a result of an investigation into what the OPA called the theft of stamps worth 20,000,000 gallons of gasoline and fuel oil.

The warrants were sworn out by the Harrisburg District OPA office before U. S. Commissioner W. S.
Middleton and were turned over to Deputy U. S. Marshal William Capello for service. Four persons had previously been arrested in Washington in connection with the inquiry.

The coupons, obsolete at point of issuance but still valid in the hands of users, got into circulation, the OPA asserted, when a shredding machine of the Penn Paper and Stock company, a Washington salvage firm, failed to destroy them and they were shipped as waste paper to the Glatfelter Paper company of Spring Grove, York county.

Asserting "there is no reflection, at all, upon the company," Charles J. Ware, chief enforcement attorney of the Harrisburg OPA, said officials of the Glatfelter company "were very cooperative and assisted our investigators in stopping the shipments."

Those named in the warrants and the charges are:

George F. Luckenbaugh, 24, Spring
Grove, acquiring 20 coupon books.
Stewart G. Kashner, 27, York, acquiring 32 coupon books.

Charles H. Stauffer, 33, York, selling approximately 200 sheets of coupons.

Ralph Leber, York, gasoline tank truck driver, acquiring and disposing of an unidentified number of coupons.

Paul E. Sterner, 37, Hanover, gasoline station operator, buying and selling approximately 20 books of coupons.

Philip A. Messinger, 29, Hanover, buying 20 to 25 coupon books.

Just Folks

QUATRIANS GAMES

Though very pleasant things to play, Games are but games at best, I'd say. And it's too bad when playing ends In loss of self-respect and friends.

THE DIFFICULTY
So easily a war begins! But when the cannons cease, So hard to know which nation wins And how adjust the peace.

OLD SAYING
My father said it o'er and o'er: "Just do the best you can. Angels are asked to do no more. Life asks no more of man."

WEAKLING
Those resolutions good I made Lie shattered in the dust. 'Twas ever so! Now I'm afraid Myself I cannot trust.

Today's Talk
By George Matthew Adams

ALLIANCES

This brief space has never been devoted to controversial subjects. It has been dedicated from the very first to talks that might give hope, comfort and cheer to every reader.

I would like to depart from this object, at least this once, however, and make a few statements that I believe concern every lover of democratic ideals on this side of the world. I have long been a student of history and concerned with the events that have shaped the course of history.

This war, on the part of the free nations, will have failed in its high purposes if it ends with the making of alliances. If all the alliances in history could be put into pictures, you would note each one of them all spotted up with wars. They are breeders of wars, always have been and always will be.

What this world needs is a compact, unified, cooperative organization of all the nations into one helpful, working family. Benjamin Franklin had this idea a hundred and fifty years ago. Simon Bolivar initiated it in South America nearly a hundred and forty years ago in his Pan-American Union. There would be no sense in an alliance for the United States, for instance, with Canada, Mexico, or the other Republics to the south, for we are friends and intend to remain as such.

No nation, however, can afford to remain isolated from a world organization to preserve peace, by which all nations are blessed. Abraham Lincoln, in closing his first inaugural address, said: "We are not enemies. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearth-stone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

The only permanent alliance, ordained by the Creator at the inception of life itself, should be this—an alliance of good will, friendliness, and economic equality among all nations, for only friends can work together for the good of all.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Influence."

MILK PROPERLY

Milking machines should be left on the best cows no longer than five minutes and three to four minutes for the poor to average cows, say Penn State dairy specialists.

RESOLUTION ON FEDERAL JUDGE PROBE IN HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—A resolution calling for an investigation of federal judges Albert W. Johnson and Albert L. Watson of the Middle District Court of Pennsylvania was before the House today following rapid approval by the House Judiciary committee.

Action was taken by the judiciary committee less than 24 hours after the resolution was introduced by Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) who predicted the house will also approve it.

A second resolution to authorize expenditures up to $2,500 to conduct the investigation was referred to the committee on accounts where prompt action was also forecast by Sumners.

To Report To House

His committee, Sumners said, was informed by letter that the judicial council of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals had recommended an investigation of Judges Johnson and Watson in a resolution sent to the Department of Justice. He said he did not feel at liberty to make the letter public, but added:

"If the judicial council wishes to make known its resolution that, of course, is up to them."

The resolution would authorize the judiciary committee "to determine whether x x x said judges or either of them have been guilty of any high crime or misdemeanor which x x x requires the intervention of the constitutional powers of the House" and orders the committee to "report its findings to the House, together with such resolutions of impeachment or other recommendations as it deems proper."

Finds Deficiency Of Iron In Diets

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Reporting surveys show large percentages of Pennsylvanians are eating diets deficient in iron and other blood-building essentials, the State Health Department's Nutrition division warned such diets result in nutritional anemia in many cases.

"Fatigue and low resistance go hand in hand with anemia," declared Mrs. Anna dePlanter Bowes, chief of the division. "Thus, it becomes a health and industrial hazard."

Mrs. Bowes said adults need 12 milligrams of iron daily and children from 6 to 15 milligrams. She suggested that such foods as oysters, spinach, pork liver and cooked wheat cereals are food sources of iron.

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Every Pennsylvanian was urged by Governor Martin to join in the March of Dimes now being conducted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

"There is urgent need for earnest and active cooperation in order to maintain scientific research and study of the disease," declared the Governor in a statement.

"The war against this enemy, infantile paralysis must be fought ceaselessly and with ever increasing intensity until the dread malady is conquered."

VETS HAVE EYES ON OFFICES AND BALLOTS IN '44

By JACK BELL

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Members of Congress discovered today in the midst of their efforts to make the ballot available to service men and women that some war veterans not only want to vote but intend to run for office—and national office, at that.

Two special elections to fill vacancies in the House of Representatives are pointing up a growing tendency on the part of military men to enter the political lists this year.

Naval Lieutenant George E. Andrews, now stationed at Pearl Harbor, has become a candidate for Congress while on active duty. Andrews led a field of five in the first primary to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Henry B. Steagall in the third Alabama district. He faces a runoff for the nomination with Hubert Farmer, Dothan, Ala., lawyer.

Indicate New Trend

In Colorado, the Democrats have nominated Maj. Carl E. Wuertele, 30 year old wounded and bedridden hero of Pearl Harbor, Midway and more than 200 aerial combat missions, as their candidate in a March 7 special election to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. Lawrence Lewis, a Democrat. The Republicans nominated Dean M. Gillespie, 59 year old business man and New Deal critic.

Wuertele was nominated while he was in a hospital undergoing treatment for a foot wound. Unless he is granted a medical discharge, he can not campaign for himself.

These two cases apparently are representative of a new political trend that seems to be spreading.

Plan Monthly C-D Exercises For Staff

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Monthly control center exercises supplemented by local drills will be inaugurated by the State Defense Council to keep Pennsylvania's air raid protection organization at peak efficiency.

The program, which was approved by county defense chairman here yesterday, will be partial substitute for practice blackouts and alerts, reduced by the Army to one every three months, but it will not involve the public.

The Council announced control center exercises will be held on a different night during the second week of each month. Local drills will be called at the discretion of local leaders.

Asserting there is "little evidence to support the popular opinion that the war is nearly won," Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, state director, advised industry, business or civilian defense "to assume that it will be a long war" in making any plans.

Seek Cooperative Effort On Postwar Farm-Business Link

Plans for solving post-war problems will be considered by a joint committee of Pennsylvania business and agriculture as a result of a suggestion made during Farm Show Week in Harrisburg by Roland N. Benjamin, secretary of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Cooperative association.

The Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers association, the Pennsylvania Chain Store council and the Farm Bureau have laid plans for the formation of a committee which, according to Mr. Benjamin, "may decide the kind of world we will live in during the days ahead."

Mr. Benjamin, speaking at a joint meeting of the three organizations in the state capitol on the closing day of Farm Show Week, said the

Harrisburg, Jan. 26 (AP)—Seven York county men are charged in federal warrants with illegally acquiring or disposing of various quantities of ration stamps as a result of an investigation into what the OPA called the theft of stamps worth 20,000,000 gallons of gasoline and fuel oil.

The warrants were sworn out by the Harrisburg District OPA office before U. S. Commissioner W. S. Middleton and were turned over to Deputy U. S. Marshal William Capello for service. Four persons had previously been arrested in Washington in connection with the inquiry.

The coupons, obsolete at point of issuance but still valid in the hands of users, got into circulation, the OPA asserted, when a shredding machine of the Penn Paper and Stock company, a Washington salvage firm, failed to destroy them and they were shipped as waste paper to the Glatfelter Paper company of Spring Grove, York county.

Asserting "there is no reflection, at all, upon the company," Charles J. Ware, chief enforcement attorney of the Harrisburg OPA, said officials of the Glatfelter company "were very cooperative and assisted our investigators in stopping the shipments."

Three Hanoverians

Those named in the warrants and the charges are:

George F. Luckenbaugh, 24, Spring Grove, acquiring 20 coupon books.

Stewart G. Kashner, 27, York, acquiring 32 coupon books.

Charles H. Stauffer, 33, York, selling approximately 200 sheets of coupons.

Ralph Leber, York, gasoline tank truck driver, acquiring and disposing of an unidentified number of coupons.

Paul E. Sterner, 37, Hanover, gasoline station operator, buying and selling approximately 20 books of coupons.

Philip A. Messinger, 29, Hanover, buying 20 to 25 coupon books.

David E. Mummert, 22, Hanover, R. 2, acquiring and transferring 50 books of coupons.

Sold Books

The OPA did not estimate the number of gallons involved in the specific charges. The warrants charged dealing in two forms of gasoline coupons, "R," non-highway gasoline, and "TT," truck gasoline.

Marvin H. Cullison, OPA investigator, said Kashner surrendered 110 coupons. Cullison also identified Mummert as an employee of the Spring Grove company and said he made a statement that he sold 25 books and gave 25 others to friends.

Cullison also asserted some of the books mentioned in the warrants were first sold at $5, resold at $10 and finally at $14 by different individuals.

Those named, the OPA added, were cooperative and assisted our investigators in stopping the shipments."

You are only asked to lend your money!

LIEUTENANT (j.g.) PAUL BAKER, Navy pilot, with five Jap aircraft to his credit in the day's fighting, was hovering over the aircraft carrier Lexington at dusk, awaiting the signal to land. His gas tanks were nearly empty. Suddenly, over the horizon Jap planes were spotted. It was feared the Japs might discover the Lexington and try a suicide attempt. Baker's order to land never came. His landing lights might have given the Lexington's position away. Without hesitation, Lieutenant Baker turned his plane away from the big carrier and headed for the open sea, luring the Japs after him. He disappeared into the night, never to be seen again. The Lexington was safe.

You can buy extra Bonds!

Paul Baker had a big decision to make. It took him about two seconds.

We, at home, also have a decision to make. We are asked to buy extra War Bonds at once. Our boys at the front are depending on us in this Fourth War Loan. Our patriotic impulse is to say "yes" first and look around for the money afterwards. Let us obey that impulse! It will do us good in more ways than one!

Paul Baker sized his situation up in two seconds . . . and acted. We, whose duty is so trifling by comparison, need scarcely more time in which to do ours!

Think! We are asked to make an investment, not a sacrifice! We are asked to invest the money we would normally use to replace automobiles or farm machinery or repair buildings and fences. We are asked to establish a depreciation reserve which will be available for replacements after the war. We are asked to build up a financial reserve for unfavorable years that may come later, or for the education of the children, unexpected hospital bills, or the payment of taxes and debts.

War Bonds are the best form of financial reserve ever offered you. Your money helps finance the war. By postponing unnecessary spending you speed production of planes and munitions to win the war. The gradual expenditure of your reserve after the war will provide jobs for returning soldiers and help stabilize the nation's finances in the postwar adjustment period.

Ask yourself: Have I a single valid reason why I should not buy extra War Bonds?

Then, like Paul Baker, make your decision and act!

Get ready for the day when Johnny comes marching home!

If you have a boy in the service, think what it will mean to have him come back and share with you the joy of equipping the farm with the best in tractors and other machinery. Think what it can mean for you to have the cash to put the children through college. Think what it can mean, a few years hence, to have new farm buildings or a new home or complete modern conveniences about the place.

To thousands upon thousands of farm and ranch owners who have bought extra War Bonds, these things are assured. For the first time in their lives they are going to be able to have the things they've wanted. Some of them are your neighbors. How about you?

Interesting News Of Upper Adams Countians And Their Enterprises

Record High Incomes Seen For Farms In 1944

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Another year of record high income is in prospect for American farmers regardless of subsidy developments.

Barring unusually bad weather, farmers in 1944 will sell as many or more products at higher prices on the average than in 1943. The War Food Administration has asked farmers to plant 380 million acres—16 million more than were planted in 1943—with a larger proportion devoted to food crops.

The huge war demand for foods and fibers is expected to be larger than ever. Military food needs will be greater and relief shipments will increase as territories in Europe are liberated. Moreover, while war continues in Europe the food buying power of American civilians should be about as large as in 1943.

See Higher Prices
Even after the defeat of Germany, farm income should remain high because of the enormous food demands of half-starved millions in western Europe and in Russia. Agricultural experts believe these needs will offset any decrease in our civilian food buying which might result from a slump in employment while industry is being partially converted to peace production.

Although most farm prices are now subject to ceilings, directly or indirectly, some increases in 1944 are likely in the way of offsets to rises in farm production costs. Economists expect the price trend to be slightly upward even if subsidy payments are being made on a large scale.

The price of things that farmers buy has gone up considerably but the general increase has not been as large as that of the commodities they sell. Department of Agriculture statistics show that the buying power of farm products increased 58 per cent between 1939 and last September. This "buying power" represents the ratio of prices received for farm products to prices, interest and taxes paid by farmers.

4,200,000 to War Jobs
The war is bringing farmers in general a good harvest of dollars for their extra-hard work, but it also is handing them more than the proverbial peck of trouble. Farmers with sons in the fighting forces have had to toil 12 to 16 hours a day, pay high wages to less efficient farm help, and worry over complicated price controls and other confusing regulations.

The farm labor and machinery shortages have been the worst in history. Truck, tire and gasoline scarcities have aggravated a normally tough market problem. The scarcity and rising cost of feed for livestock are another headache.

Some three million farm workers shifted to non-agricultural jobs in the three years preceding April, 1943. An additional 1,200,000 persons from the farm population entered the armed forces during this period. All this came at a time when farmers were called upon to produce more than ever.

Soil Depletion
While most farm labor losses have been overcome numerically, recruits to the farm work force are largely women, children and older men. An improved outlook for new farm machinery in 1944 is foreseen by the War Food Administration, but the situation remains tight in hauling vehicles. Trucks and replacement tires for trucks are particularly scarce. On the other hand, WFE has authorized raw materials for making planting, tillage and harvesting equipment to provide for double the quantity produced in 1943.

Another farm problem is the perpetual fight against soil depletion. Intensive wartime production is a heavy drain on soil fertility. Cropping annually takes from the soils of this country thousands of tons of chemical matter needed for plant nutrition. Where crop yields have been maintained through the years in the face of declining soil fertility, it has meant increasing expenditures for production. Fertilizers cost plenty.

HATCH EARLY PULLETS

Egg prices normally start to advance in June and usually there is an upward trend until October or November. Extension poultry specialists say pullets hatched in January, February, or early March should be laying well when prices are advancing.

New Ruling On Poultry Houses

OPA has announced the removal of prefabricated hog and poultry houses from coverage of regulations establishing maximum retail prices for farm equipment.

These portable farm buildings will now be priced under provisions of the General Maximum Price Regulation, which has a March, 1942 base pricing period.

The level of present retail prices will not be affected by the change.

Egg-Feed Price Cutting Profits

Higher costs of chicken feed in Pennsylvania are reflected in a recent poultry report by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service in the State Department of Agriculture.

December a year ago commercial poultrymen could get 100 pounds of feed for the price of 67 eggs. But in December of 1943 it took 83 eggs. Feed costs advanced and egg prices declined to such an extent that in December it required 10 more eggs to buy 100 pounds of feed than in November.

SUNSHINE CAN SUPPLEMENT INFERIOR FEED

The Bureau of Animal Industry at Harrisburg has a tip for Adams county livestock and poultry growers who are facing the growing shortages and decreasing values in livestock feeds—making the health of the livestock a matter for more than usual attention this winter.

Their suggestion is to see that the cattle, horses and chickens spend as much time as possible in the sunshine.

"One of the best winter tonics, vitamin D, is absolutely free to all cattle if their owners will merely see that they get out of dark barns and into the sunshine as frequently as possible," according to Dr. H. C. Kutz, chief of the bovine tuberculosis eradication division. "It is only through exposure to direct sunlight that vitamin D can be stored in the bodies of all cattle."

Dairy Cattle Needs
"When the animals cannot get the penetrating ultraviolet rays of direct sunshine the vitamin ratio of the bodies are unbalanced and lowered. Lacking feed that is high in the various essential elements, they are highly susceptible to diseases, infections and other ailments."

"This is especially noticeable in dairy cattle where daily milking depletes the body of vitamins, particularly the D factor. It may result in changes in body structure as indicated by various bone affections, rickets, mineral deficiencies and loss of nerve tone and muscle contraction power. The changes may cause the animal to lose the ability to stand."

All dairy cattle housed in the confinement of dark barns should have exercise in the open several hours each day, during late morning and early afternoon, even though the temperature at the time is low. Doctor Kutz advises. Barns should be equipped with as many windows as possible and the panes kept clean.

CLEAN MILK

Cows can be helped to produce clean milk through proper clipping of the flanks, the belly, and the udder. The absence of long hair on these parts makes it easy to brush and wash the cows.

SCRIBES SHOWN SCENE OF NAZI OUTRAGE OF '41

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Smolensk, U. S. S. R., Jan. 26 (AP)—A party of American and British correspondents were taken today to the grim Katyn forest 10 miles outside Smolensk and shown the scene where a special Soviet investigating commission charges the Germans shot thousands of Poles one by one in August and September of 1941.

The German tale that the Poles were shot by the Russians in March and April of 1940 was described by the commission as "provocation."

A special train took the correspondents to the scene where they were shown bodies in mass graves, medical experts at work making post mortem examinations and the special commission hearing testimony of witnesses.

Red Conclusions

The conclusions already reached by the special Soviet atrocities commission were:

1. "It is established that in August and September of 1941 the Germans killed Polish prisoners of war on the Katyn Hills (in Katyn forest)."

2. "Feeling their position insecure, the Germans hastened to cover up their crime. For this purpose they opened the graves and tried to find witnesses, brought bodies from other graves and mounted provocation."

Correspondents were shown documents taken from Polish bodies dated as late as June 20, 1941, which would make the German explanation of the mystery impossible, saw evidence that the bodies had been in the ground only about two years and heard testimony confirming the Soviet version.

Seven Gaping Graves

The scene of the crime was a sparse cluster of pine trees on the Goats Hills above the Upper Dnieper just off the Smolensk-Vitebsk highway 10 miles west of Smolensk where seven gaping graves exposed indisputable evidence that thousands of Poles had been killed.

Prof. Victor Ilyich Prozorovsky, senior medical expert of the Soviet atrocities commission and director of the Moscow Institute of Criminal Medical Research, was in charge of the examination.

He said more than 700 bodies already had been removed from the tombs and estimated the total at 11,000.

Dr. Prozorovsky stood on a heap of red sand above the graves while Red army privates dug out the bodies, placed them on stretchers and carried them to a nearby tent for examination.

"On the basis of examination of the condition of the bodies, medical and criminal experts estimate the bodies were confined in the grave about two years, perhaps a little more or a little less," the doctor said.

Captain Orders Breakfast In Bed For Crack Outfit

Camp Campbell, Ky., Jan. 26 (AP)—This laugh is on the bugler who "can't get 'em up in the morning."

It's not a fairy story and it went like this... Instead of the bugle a sweet ringing little breakfast bell tinkled musically in the darkness of Company B, 27th Tank Battalion here. Mess attendants politely asked "Here's the menu. Will you order breakfast in bed?"

Tough G.I. Joe's stared in amazement until their commander, Capt. Kenneth F. Maxey, Jr., grinned affirmation that it was no gag.

Because of the unit's fine showing in individual tank crew gunnery tests Maxey decided something should be done about it... he hit on the idea of "breakfast in bed... in the Army."

Real menus provided a choice of eggs "up, over or scrambled" plus cereal and cream, grapefruit, toast, coffee or milk.

"Kings of the show line, that's this outfit," now brag the soldiers.

Three hundred million years ago one third of the United States was covered by tangled swamps.

We met a 22-year old soldier, a Frenchman, the other day. He spoke with a slight accent. We asked him why he was in service and, this is what he said:

"My two brothers and a sister came to this country from Versailles, France, some years ago. My sister is married and lives in Rhode Island. My two brothers have been in the U. S. Navy for some time. When Germany stole France I enlisted. My 15 years old sister died in a Nazi concentration camp and we haven't heard from my 32 year old father and my 37 year old mother in a long, long time. I just want to get back to France with the Americans and get just one crack at those Nazis."

The little fellow who collects waste paper and buys war stamps with the receipts did not make his regular weekly collection on Saturday because he is ill. He may not be well enough to resume his work this week. "2. The board takes the position that it has the right not only to fix future wages but to render a money award for back wages for services already rendered and paid for without affording the employer an effective right of judicial review."

"3. The board has promulgated and enforced a new legal doctrine to the effect that it has the power and authority to compel the parties to execute a contract to do anything that the parties might voluntarily do, irrespective of whether there is any legal or contractual obligation on the parties so to do."

"4. To order an employer against his will to encourage membership in a union by requiring continuance of membership as a condition of employment, or requiring the check-off of union dues as a condition of employment, is so clearly in violation of the law that it is difficult to follow the devious reasoning by which the Board seeks to justify its conclusions."

"5. The Board has not confined itself to labor disputes in war industries but has assumed jurisdiction over all types of interstate and intrastate business, no matter how remotely they may be removed from any connection with the war effort."

"6. Compulsory arbitration which requires the parties to abide by the arbitrator's decision is in violation of the constitutional rights of the parties."

"A Single Track Mind!"

FLIGHT from LOVE

by JOHN C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY AP Features

Chapter 4

The porter's face split in a wide grin, as he straightened and turned after depositing Julie's baggage in the aisle of the car.

"Are you kiddin', ma'am?" Julie brought her gaze back from the car window where she had seen the outskirts of Melbridge moving past.

"No," she said. "I merely asked for a drawing room."

The porter chuckled. "Ma'am, the drawing rooms have been reserved for months on this train. Guess you haven't been travelin' much since the war begun."

A conductor was coming along the swaying aisle. There was no welcome in his manner, but after a long discourse to Julie, on the thoughtlessness of leaping onto a crowded train, he remembered a reservation that hadn't been filled. It was an upper berth in car twelve.

Julie shrugged. What did it matter? She could have had half a dozen drawing rooms and she wouldn't have enjoyed this trip. She followed the conductor.

There was early morning bustle and confusion in every coach. Porters were making up berths. Passengers in bathrobes crowded past them on their way to the wash-room.

Groups of soldiers filled the second car. They took one look at Julie's piquant face in its mass of dark curls, at her slender, white-suited figure with the scarlet accessories, and whistled in happy chorus.

But Julie hardly noticed. Her feelings and her pride had been so mauled last night it would take more than the idle whistles of strangers to resurrect them.

She smiled gratefully at the porter when he managed to wangle her a seat by a widow, and settled down without a word to the thin-lipped middle-aged business man beside her.

Through the dragging sunlit hours that followed, her mind moved in a tortured circle of questions without answers.

What had happened to Dave since that last night when he went away from Melbridge as an inductee? They had walked in the garden and looked down on the town and, he had said:

"I hate to go away from you, Julie. I love you. I've worshipped you since I can remember. Since you used to drive your little pony cart down the hill. I'd hang around the gate to wave."

She remembered with bitter humor now that she had been pleased and proud at his love, had taken it lightly, as a matter of course.

Now suddenly the structure of her life and her identity was shaking about her. She couldn't understand it. The war to her up to last night had been only distant rumble, a pageant of uniforms, a motif for farewell parties. True, there had been a strange, rising desolation in her as she sheltered, midst the community gradually made the inevitable shift of values. She had felt the withdrawal of attention from the tight little social realm over which she held sway.

Now Dave no longer loved her. It made the pattern of her life suddenly meaningless. For the first time she realized how she had lived increasingly in her dreams of Dave during these last months. It had been pride, too, of course. His picture in the paper. His clean-cut face, his eyes with that keen gaze of the airman. Those stories of his heroism, of his medals.

Her heart throbbed with sudden fresh pain, as she felt her way to slow realization. That was it. Dave had been everywhere. For the first time in his life he had traveled. He had seen girls in New York, in London, in Cairo, in San Francisco. She, Julie, was no longer the princess of the house on the hill. She was, to him now only a small town girl.

Small wonder he had been bored with her last night, eager to dance with everyone. And then she had begged him to marry her... Her cheeks flushed with a strange, new shame.

The hours passed, in a blur of misery. She gazed her way up through the cars to the dining car. It was jammed with soldiers. The waiter told her to come back later. On the way back to her car she saw the dark, good looking man who had helped her onto the observation platform. He saw her and gave her a quick smile and nod.

She didn't try the dining room again. She bought a sandwich occasionally and a paper cup of coffee or an apple.

The second night she had been dimly aware for some time that the landscape was blotted out by darkness. She was conscious that her head was aching.

The porter said, "There's a place for you now in the dining car. I'll take you."

She wasn't hungry, but she obeyed a subtle command in his voice. She went a little unsteadily up through the crowded, jostling cars.

There was but one empty chair. A man's hand was resting on the back of it possessively. It was the dark man of the observation platform.

"I didn't think you'd last another night without food," he told her brusquely. "I took the liberty of ordering for you."

She murmured polite thanks and obediently ate the food before her, while his dark eyes wandered over her, quizzically. He told her his name was Marek Dorr and seemed amused she hadn't heard of him.

On his way back from Washington after conferences on his quota of war films.

"You've been ignoring me consistently," he accused. "Why shouldn't I?" Julie countered wearily.

Marek Dorr gave an exasperated chuckle. "Let us say," he proposed, "because you are an exceptionally beautiful girl, and I am a movie producer."

A tall uniformed man had paused in the dining car door. For one short instant to Julie's flickering gaze, he looked like Dave. Then her thudding heart eased in disappointment.

We met a 22-year old soldier, a Frenchman, the other day. He speaks with a slight accent. We asked him why he was in service and this is what he said:

"My two brothers and a sister came to this country from Versailles, France, some years ago. My sister is married and lives in Rhode Island. My two brothers have been in the U. S. Navy for some time. When Germany stole France I enlisted. My 15 years old sister died in a Nazi concentration camp and we haven't heard from my 92 year old father and my 87 year old mother in a long, long time. I just want to get back to France with the Americans and get just one crack at those Nazis."

Chapter 4

The porter's face split in a wamermelon grin, as he straightened and turned after depositing Julie's baggage in the aisle of the car.

"Are you kiddin', ma'am?" Julie brought her gaze back from the car window where she had seen the outskirts of Melbridge moving past.

"No," she said. "I merely asked for a drawing room."

The porter chuckled. "Ma'am, the drawing rooms have been reserved for months on this train. Guess you haven't been travelin' much since the war begun."

A conductor was coming along the swaying aisle. There was no welcome in his manner, but after a long discourse to Julie on the thoughtlessness of leaping onto a crowded train, he remembered a reservation that hadn't been filled. It was an upper berth in car twelve.

Julie shrugged. What did it matter? She could have had half a dozen drawing rooms and she wouldn't have enjoyed this trip. She followed the conductor.

There was early morning bustle and confusion in every coach. Porters were making up berths. Passengers in bathrobes crowded past them on their way to the washroom.

Groups of soldiers filled the second car. They took one look at Julie's piquant face in its mass of dark curls, at her slender, white-sorted figure with the scarlet accessories, and whistled in happy chorus.

But Julie hardly noticed. Her feelings and her pride had been so mauled last night it would take more than the idle whistles of strangers to resurrect them.

She smiled gratefully at the porter when he managed to wangle her a seat by a widow, and settled down without a word to the thin-lipped middle-aged business man beside her.

Through the dragging sunlit hours that followed, her mind moved in a tortured circle of questions without answers.

What had happened to Dave since that last night when he went away from Melbridge as an inductee? They had walked in the garden and looked down on the town and he had said:

"I hate to go away from you, Julie. I love you. I've worshipped you since I can remember. Since you used to drive your little pony cart down the hill. I'd hang around the gate to wave."

She remembered with bitter humor now that she had been pleased and proud at his love, had taken it lightly, as a matter of course.

Now suddenly the structure of her life and her identity was shaking about her. She couldn't understand it. The war to her up to last night had been only distant rumble, a pageant of uniforms, a motif for farewell parties. True, there had been a strange, rising desolation in her as she sheltered, midwest community gradually made the inevitable shift of values. She had felt the withdrawal of attention from the tight little social realm over which she held sway.

Now Dave no longer loved her. It made the pattern of her life suddenly meaningless. For the first time she realized how she had lived increasingly in her dreams of Dave during these last months. It had been pride, too, of course. His picture in the paper. His clean-cut face, his eyes with that keen gaze of the airman. Those stories of his heroism, of his medals.

Her heart throbbed with sudden fresh pain, as she felt her way to slow realization. That was it. Dave had been everywhere. For the first time in his life he had traveled. He had seen girls in New York, in London, in Cairo, in San Francisco. She, Julie, was no longer the princess of the house on the hill. She was, to him now only a small town girl.

Small wonder he had been bored with her last night, eager to dance with everyone. And then she had begged him to marry her... Her cheeks flamed with a strange, new shame.

The hours passed, in a blur of misery. She groped her way up through the cars to the dining car. It was jammed with soldiers. The waiter told her to come back later. On the way back to her car she saw the dark, good looking man who had helped her onto the observation platform. He saw her and gave her a quick smile and nod.

She didn't try the dining room again. She bought a sandwich occasionally and a paper cup of coffee or an apple.

The second night she had been dimly aware for some time that the landscape was blotted out by darkness. She was conscious that her head was aching.

The porter said, "There's a place for you now in the dining car. I'll take you."

She wasn't hungry, but she obeyed a subtle command in his voice. She went a little unsteadily up through the crowded, jostling cars.

There was but one empty chair. A man's hand was resting on the back of it possessively. It was the dark man of the observation platform.

"I didn't think you'd last another night without food," he told her brusquely. "I took the liberty of ordering for you."

She murmured polite thanks and obediently ate the food before her, while his dark eyes wandered over her quizzically. He told her his name was Marek Dorr and seemed amused she hadn't heard of him. On his way back from Washington after conferences on his quota of war films.

"You've been ignoring me consistently," he accused.

"Why shouldn't I?" Julie countered wearily.

Marek Dorr gave an exasperated chuckle. "Let us say," he proposed, "because you are an exceptionally beautiful girl, and I am a movie producer."

A tall uniformed man had paused in the dining car door. For one short instant to Julie's flickering gaze, he looked like Dave. Then her thudding heart eased in disappointment.

MORE THAN 300 JAP SHIPS LOST IN AIR BATTLES

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press War Editor

Allied planes flying the invasion route in the Pacific blasted 57 to 77 Japanese aircraft from the sky while ground troops rushed forward into enemy territory on two battlefronts.

Raids announced today by Allied headquarters not only raised the Nipponese losses for January alone to well over 300 planes in the southwest and central Pacific, but heaped new devastation at enemy holdings where assault forces may strike next.

The inland drive toward the Japanese base of Madang, north-eastern New Guinea, showed progress as Australian infantrymen occupied all enemy positions in the shaggy ridge area in Dumpu Valley, some 32 miles from the coastal strongpoint. Other Allied troops command strategic points on the coast south of Madang.

Small Allied Losses

On New Britain, Borgen Bay units of American forces who landed at Cape Gloucester last Dec. 26, moved into Japanese territory with effective air cover. The Japanese caused some casualties in a six-plane bombing and strafing attack on American-held Arawe on the southwest coast.

The Nipponese lost 33 planes for certain and 12 probables over Wewak, north of Madang, 20 certain and two probable over Rabaul, the key New Britain base; and six certain and six probable in the 18th consecutive American blow at the Marshall Islands.

A total of 13 Allied planes were announced as missing in the southwestern attacks, and a "small" number failed to return from the most widespread strike at the Marshalls since the air offensive started last November.

New Suit Filed In Coal Bootlegging Ban

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 26 (AP) — A suit, naming 34 free lance miners, was filed in the Northumberland county court Monday by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company in its fight to enforce a state-directed ban against unauthorized hard coal mining.

The suit asked an injunction restraining the miners from mining and removing anthracite from its property in Shamokin and vicinity, but the court took no immediate action on the petition. At Pottsville temporary injunctions were issued against Schuylkill county miners named by the company in similar actions.

The ban, issued by the State Anthracite committee, a regulatory group, became effective last December 1, but left enforcement to property owners.

SCHOOLCHILD KILLED

SAYS CONGRESSMEN

Near Indictments

Cleveland, Jan. 26 (AP)—Representative Samuel A. Weiss (D-Pa.) declared last night "if the (Washington) grand jury that indicted 30 for traitorous acts recently had gone another step they would have indicted three members of Congress."

Rep. Weiss did not identify the Congressmen.

In an address before the Temple Men's club, Weiss termed "bloes fighting for selfish ends" with Congress as constituting the biggest obstacle to prosecution of the war, and added "certain blocs in Congress are a hot-bed for Fascism."

The Congressman asserted he favored a tax bill of eight or nine billion dollars because "the soldiers coming back will be hard and calloused; they'll want security and jobs and we have to prepare for them."

250,000 NAZIS

MAY BE TRAPPED

BY RED TROOPS

London, Jan. 26 (AP) — Russian forces have severed the principal German escape railway leading west from the Leningrad sector and Tuesday a Nazi army estimated to number at least 250,000 was facing possible entrapment by two Soviet armies south of Russia's second city.

The Germans were being herded west and southwest toward the Estonian border by Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad front forces and Gen. A. K. A. Meretskov's Volkhov army based on Novgorod, 100 miles to the south. Junction of these two armies, effected last week, forms a semi-circle around the enemy which is constantly being squeezed tighter according to advices from Moscow.

Most telling blow against the elaborate Nazi communication and supply system below Leningrad was struck Monday by Govorov's forces. They stormed down to cut the Krasnogvardeisk-Narva trunk line near the village of Smolokov, 40 miles southwest of Leningrad, and 16 miles west-southwest of Krasnogvardeisk. A Soviet communique said the Russians killed 1,500 Germans on the way and captured 10 tanks, 24 guns and other valuable war material. Soviet vanguards were reported but two miles from Krasnogvardeisk itself.

Further to the east other units of Govorov's army battled their way through 40 towns and villages, including historic Pushkin (Tsarskoye Selo) and Pavlovsk (Sluts) important rail junctions 14 and 18 miles south of Leningrad. Another 800 Nazis were slain in this drive, said the Russian communique, and a sizeable bag of prisoners was counted as Govorov swept on to capture Ulianovka on the Leningrad-Moscow trunk railway.

Capture of Pushkin and Pavlovsk, which between them control at least 12 lines out of Leningrad, won a citation for Govorov's troops from Premier Stalin.

Many War Bonds

Philadelphia, Jan. 26 (AP) — The 2,500 inmates of Eastern penitentiary who earn 10 to 15 cents a day, have subscribed to $69,750 in war bonds since the beginning of the Fourth War Loan drive, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Their contribution was part of the $70,000,000 reported to date from Pennsylvania, which has $432,000,000 goal.

The state-wide increase over the week-end was $4,638,027, but with 25 per cent of the campaign over Pennsylvania still had reached only 16.6 per cent of its goal.

Spurred by Philadelphia Navy Yard employees' purchase of more than $1,000,000 in bonds, Philadelphia's sales to individuals rose to $23,220,027, 18.5 per cent of the city's quota.

The Fourth Naval District also reported that more than 90 per cent of the V-12 trainees at colleges throughout the state are buying bonds, with those at Bloomsburg State Teachers college and Grove City college participating 100 per cent in the program.

South Campaigns

For Vice Presidency

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Southern members of Congress and of the Democratic National committee have started a campaign to put a southerner in second place on a ticket they now nearly all believe will carry President Roosevelt's name as a candidate for re-election in November.

The groundwork for the drive was laid at informal conferences last week but Senator Maybank (D-SC) said Tuesday there is as yet no agreement on who the southern candidate should be.

From other sources it was learned that some southern Governors have been talking about Gov. J. Melville Broughton of North Carolina as a possibility. Broughton's name was not written on any of the ballots cast in an Associated Press poll of National Committee members to learn their Vice Presidential preferences but Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia received one vote.

MORE THAN 300

JAP SHIPS LOST

IN AIR BATTLES

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

Associated Press War Editor

Allied planes flying the invasion route in the Pacific blasted 57 to 77 Japanese aircraft from the sky while ground troops pushed forward into enemy territory on two battlefronts.

Raids announced today by Allied headquarters not only raised the Nipponese losses for January alone to well over 300 planes in the southwest and central Pacific, but heaped new devastation at enemy holdings where assault forces may strike next.

The inland drive toward the big Japanese base of Madang, north-eastern New Guinea, showed progress as Australian infantrymen occupied all enemy positions in the shaggy ridge area in Dumpu Valley some 32 miles from the coastal stronghold. Other Allied troops command strategic points on the coast south of Madang.

Small Allied Losses

On New Britain, Borgen Bay units of American forces who landed at Cape Gloucester last Dec. 26, moved into Japanese territory with effective air cover. The Japanese caused some casualties in a six-plane bombing and strafing attack on American-held Arave on the southwest coast.

The Nipponese lost 33 planes for certain and 12 probabilities over Wewak, north of Madang, 20 certain and two probable over Rabaul, their key New Britain base; and six certain and six probable in the 18th consecutive American blow at the Marshall Islands.

A total of 13 Allied planes were announced as missing in the southwestern attacks, and a "small" number failed to return from the most widespread strike at the Marshalls since the air offensive started last November.

New Suit Filed In

Coal Bootlegging Ban

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 26 (AP) — A suit, naming 34 free lance miners, was filed in the Northumberland county court Monday by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company in its fight to enforce a state-directed ban against unauthorized hard coal mining.

The suit asked an injunction restraining the miners from mining and removing anthracite from its property in Shamokin and vicinity but the court took no immediate action on the petition. At Pottsville, temporary injunctions were issued against Schuylkill county miners named by the company in similar actions.

The ban, issued by the State Anthracite committee, a regulatory group, became effective last December 1, but left enforcement to property owners.
